The Larchnont and Seawanhaka committees have reported. The Larchmont Club will take n soon and the Seawanhaka will consider the matter at its meeting to-night at Sherry's. The new rule is different from anything that has been proposed before and it taxes beam and draught. It is as follows:

Yachts shall be rated for classification and time allowance by racing measurement, which shall be determined by adding to half the load water line, half the square root of the sail area and a quantity determined as I, and by dividing the sum of these quan-

following extracts from its report explain the new rule:

when the present rule was framed, and for some years afterward, the use of lead keels was practically unknown, and the few instances of their use, partial or otherwise, were to be found in small vessels. Keels were formerly used to prevent leeway, not as levers to hang lead upon. The draught taken was moderate and proportionate to the bulk and accommodations of the vessel associated with it, and there were no flattened end frames, convex bow water-lines and shovel-nosed bows. When ballast was used inside the hull a fair amount of it had to be carried, and a corresponding extent of displacement and roominess in the yacht was assured, without extravagance in draught or other dimensions, but a time arof displacement and roominess in the yacht was assured, without extravagance in draught or other dimensions, but a time arrived when yachts having these charactersties and with roomy cabins and good accommodations, were found to be classed in racing with vessels having little room and displacement, and possessing sail carrying power through the agency of a short keel or fin used as a lever on which to carry the lead ballast. Another new feature also appeared about the same time in very full and convex water-lines with correspondingly flattened and sharpened vertical longitudinal section lines and lengthened over water ends. section lines and lengthened over the mods.

It is proposed to make practicable the building of any yacht having a symmetrical and useful area of midship section proportional to the breadth and drausht associated with it. It is also proposed that any yacht having a disproportionately small midship section, with large dimensions of breadth or draught, or both-providing only that the sum of the two is large—shall allow time or its equivalent in the increase of other factors, to what may here be called the normal vacht. It is further proposed to make practicable the building of any yacht with only a useful and normal amount of fulness in the ends of the load-water plane.

It is also proposed that vessels with flat or extravagantly full ends shall allow time or its equivalent to the more normal vessel. It is not proposed to in any way affect vessels which have been referred to as within normal limits, except to give to them such allowances as they may become entitled

From the time of the America to and including Volunteer. Ittania, Katrina, Minerva and Lasca it would be difficult, if not impossible, to name a yacht built for these waters with a midship section so small relative to her draught and bearn that the square root of its area when multiplied by three and one-third would not be equal to the sum of beam

NAME FOR THE LAWSON BOAT. May Be Announced To-day - A $5.000 Cap for

Boston, Feb. 25 - Thomas W. Lawson has sloop, but owing to press of business matters he was unable to confer with the officers of the Hull Yacht Club relative to the selection of a committee to manage the reguttes for this and other classes of boats for which he has offered cups and prizes, so he let the thing rest until to-morrow. Mr. Lawson wanted to offer a cup for the 90-footers which would cost $10,000, but he was advise d that the expenditure of half that amount would purchase a trophy the intrinsic value of which would be greater than any ever before purchase a trophy the intrinsic value of which would be greater than any ever before hung up for any class of boats, so he will have a cup made to cost $5,000.

The Gloucester fishermen are greatly interested in the offer of cash prizes for a race between vessels engaged in that business, but there is one difficulty which confronts them. At the season of the year when Mr. Lawson expects to hold the regarta, Sept. 1, all the fast boats are engaged in seining and in order to race a vessel would have to lay off a week or two to be put into the best condition. In September, when the mackerel are running in, it is not unusual for a vessel to make a catch which will bring her as high as $5,000. So that the racing business would be a great loss.

No frames have been put on the Boston boat in addition to the sixteen set in place on last Thursday. The workmen have been engaged in getting the five bronze plates, which lsp around the lower part of the forward overhang, ready and to-day they were put in place.

To Race for Lipton Cup Again.

In its report of the racing last year the Regatta Committee of the New York Yacht Club says that in the contest for the Lipton cup the Rainbow was disqualified, the Mineola, the second yacht to finish, was not properly entered, and the Virginia won the cup. W. K. Vanderbilt, the owner of the Virginia, declined to accept the cup and it will be raced for again this year. The conditions of the race required each yatchtsman to make his entry in writing, but Vice-Commodore Belmont neglected to do this. In the race for the Commodore's cup the Mineola finished second to the Rainbow. This cup Mr. Belmont declined to accept.

Choynaki Knocks Johnson Out-Both May Go

GALVESTON, Feb. 25 .- At the Galveston Athletic Club to-night Joe Choynski knocked Jack Johnson, a colored fighter, out in the third round of a twenty-round bout with a third round of a twenty-round bout with a right hook on the jaw. A squad of Texas rangers under Capt. Brock thereupon dashed into the ring and arrested Choynski and Johnson, who are now at police headquarters awaiting the arrival of Recorder Allen to fix bonds. The arrests were made at the instigution of Gov. Sayers who had counsed and witnesses at the ring side. The penalty under the Texas law for angaging in a prizefight is from two to five years in the penitentiary at hard labor. Counsel representing the State stated he would insist on a bond for each man. It is probable that the promoters of the fight will also be arrested.

"Major" Taylor Will Race Two Months Abroad. WORCESTER, Feb. 25 .- "Major" Taylor, the colored bicycle racer, has signed a contract with Coquelle of Paris, for two months' riding on the continent. The contract states riding on the continent. The contract states that there shall be no Sunday wheeling by Taylor. There are to be three match races, distance, one mile, with Jacquelin, the French champion. Two of them will be at Paris and the other at a place to be determined upon later. The Paris races are to be on May 16 and May 27. Taylor expects to sail for Europe on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on March 5, but may be delayed a week or so unless three new wheels lately ordered of a local concern are finished.

CURRENT SPORTING TALK.

SEVERAL REPORT IN COLLEGE APORTS TO POLLOW YALKS EXAMPLE.

With the Work Aircady Mapped Out A. G. Spatting Mar Live in California to Sec-cotals a "Wooder?" Carbott Still Talking.

The enforcement of the new eligibility rules st Tajo University is attracting attention throughout the college athletic world and it example will be generally followed at all leading institutions of learning. The evident determination of Vale's authorities to keep athletics absolutely free from irreguexcepting over other hig interesting of late, though they have not as yet put into effect their new plans. Some time ago members of the faculties of Cornell, Princeton, Columbia, University of Pennsylvania, Harrard, own and other colleges held a long dis custon of the athletic question with the refirst appeared to be strictness personified Yale took no part in the deliberations, but the New Haren family matched them with interest. When the roles adopted by the joint conference were sdo tel there was consider able adverse comment, but this has gradually finappeared because of the supposed inactivity of the framers. Following Vale's action however, it is said that all the universities hat foster athleties on a large scale will see to it that the eligibility of all students must conform to the rules as laid down by the different faculties, and that no amount of gradu ate influence can be brought to bear to cause exceptions to be made in the case of star football and baseball players, track athletes or members of 'Varsity and freshman crews The compulsory withdrawal of Bloomer from Yale's 'Varsity eleven, for a year at least, because of the enforcement of the rules, shows that the Yale faculty means busi-Under the old order of events Bloomer could have made up the ground lost in his studies in time to resume football playing next fall, but now there is no chance. Last November, it will be remembered, there was November, it will be remembered, there was a report to the effect that Perry Hale, Yale etar full back, had gotten into some difficulty with the faculty because he had fallen behind in his studies. Whatever happened to be the case, Hale, after a lay-off of everal weeks, resumed his regular place on the eleven. It is aid now, though, that Hale will not return to Yale next fail and that the existence of the new rules has something to do with it. With Yale setting the pace, Harvard is certain to follow without delay. Harvard's athletics, by the way, have always been more above. new rules has something to do with it. With Yale setting the pace. Harvard is certain to follow without delay. Harvard's athletica, by the way, have always been more above reproach than the different branches of sport at rival insulutions. Few protests have been indeed against the eligibility of Harvard's representatives, for the reason that the Athletic Committee at Cambridge has been a stickler for a rigid enforcement of the easisting rules. Pennsylvania has shown improvement recently in keeping ineligibles off the various teams, but there has been fault found within a year. Harvard protested Mctracken, the full back, last year, but he was finally allowed to play.

Only a week ago there was a general complaint from leading colleges that several members of Lafayette's eleven had no legal right to play footbail, while a little over a year ago Corneli had to explain the true status of Walbridge and Plerson. Columbia's action two years ago in playing outsiders on the Varsity eleven was further proof that these reforms were necessary, and Columbia, by the, way, is at present making a sincere effort to purge athletics of acknowledged evils. Next fall Columbia's Faculty Athletic Committee, it is said, will put the screws on harder than ever with the idea of removing all chances for protests against the members of the eleven. In the work of reforming college athletics it would appear that those in charge might do well to have some rules passed prohibiting a man who has once left a university from coming back to participate in sports. The case in point is that of Richard Sheldon, who, after leaving Yaie to go into business, reducted that university last fall and played on the eleven. Another rule might be passed prohibiting a student who has failed to pass the entrance examinations at one university from taking part in athletics at another institution the same year. It has frequently been the case that schoolboys desirous of entering a certain college have failed to pass the required examinations and have then gone to college athletics should not be uniformly governed

The plan to hold an "American Henley" at New London in June has not not with the looked-for encouragement. While the Weld and Newell Rowing clubs of Harvard look upon the plan with favor. Yale is believed to be opposed to it, because of the fear that it might affect the importance of the annual Yale-Harvard race Pennsylvania rowing men are outspoken against the idea, because they say, that it may interfere with the big intercollegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie. Cornell holds the same opinion and the other organizations mentioned as possible participants feel that the expense of such an undertaking is too great to incur.

undertaking is too great to incur.

Coach O'Dea of the University of Wisconsin crew has positively announced that the Badgers will enter the race at Poughkeepsie this year. There was some talk that Wisconsin would not send a crew East because of the plans of Pennsylvania to enter her crack 'Tarsity eight in the Henley regatta. O'Dea says, however, that Wisconsin is after the Seaman cup, emblematic of the intercollegiate rowing championship and will be on hand to row whether there is a Pennsylvania crew at the starting line or not. He believes that if Pennsylvania sends a crew to Henley, the Quakers will not be seen at Poughkeepsie on July 2, but Coach Ward declares that he will have two 'Varsity crews on the water and that the Red and Blue will show up on the Hudson just the same.

declares that he will have two 'Varsity crews en the water and that the Red and Blue will show up on the Hudson just the same.

It is reported that A. G. Spalding has purchased property in San Diego, Cal., and will make that his home in future. Spalding, according to his friends, is out of basebali for all time. He still holds some stock in the Chicago National League Club, but it is controlled by the President, James A. Hart. There was talk some time ago about the possibility of Spalding accepting the presidency of the National League, but even if the honor had been tendered to him he would have declined it with thanks. It was Spalding who, by his diplomacy, terminated the disastrious baseball war between the National League and the Brotherhood in 1800, and it is safe to say that if he had been at the helm during the succeeding years, the National League would never have become involved in its present entanglement. His brother, J. W. Spalding, is in Europe on a long pleasure tour.

The latest information from the quarters of Nouroulah, the Turkish wrestler, is that he is a "physical phenomenon." His feats of strength are heralded in big type, and the sporting public is asked to believe that he will create a veritable sensation when he makes his how on the mat. Men who have interested themselves in wrestling matches of importance say that the Turk is too fat to be active and that he is merely a big, heavy man who knows little or nothing about the game. It is even asserted that Nouroulah, when asked recently to lift some heavy weights, failed signally, though the weights have been quite easily handled by men who were practical novices at the game. It will be remembered that when Pons, the Frenchman came here, similar reports of his prowess were circulated, and that when he tackled Rocher in the Garden, he was expected to be an inexperienced wrestler of undoubted strength and his showing was such a disappointment that the crowd velled is derision. If Nouroulah does not come up to expectations, therefore, it is probable that he will get a similar reception.

Corbett is talking again. Feeling confidence in himself as a talker, "Gentleman Jim" has branched out as a reciter of monologues. He has the nerve to carry him through and his long experience as a wind sparrer should stand him in good stead. When James was champion, he talked incessantly. He kept on talking when Fitz put him down at Carson City. But he let up a little just after his battle with Kid McCov. Possibly James might make his monologue doubly interesting by describing his feelings when Fitz ianded on his solar plexus and also by going into the actual facts relative to the McCov fight. Corbett's example may be followed by Mitchell, who has been wagging his tongue industriously ever since he fought a runaway draw with John L. Sullivan at Chantilly, France.

Country (tub of Brookline Programme

Preliminary entries close on March 15 Secretary Crickmore of the National Steepiechase and Hunt Association said resterday that the Country Club desires to wind up the Grand National Steepiechase under its auspices in 1903. This event was started in 1809, with an annual subscription of $500 each from five owners, to continue for five years, the association holding the race to add $2.500. The Brooklyn Jockey Club heid the race last year and this season it will be run at Sheetshead Bay.

The following additional declarations have been received for the Suburban: J. E. Madden's br. h. Approval, 5, 112 pounds, and Burlingame Stock Farm's ch. g. Brutai, 3 ss. pounds.

Edward Corrigan will race his three-year-old, by imp. Artillery-Mabel, in England under the name of Label, while Sardine, his four-year-old, by tupp. Bassetlaw -Sardony, will be known as Sardine II. Richard Croker has named his two-year-old gelding, by His Highness—Inheritance, Semper Paratus.

Now that August Belmont, President of the Jockey Club, is back from his Southern trip racegoers will auxiously await the calling of the special meeting of the stewards it may be held on Thursday and the racing dates for the season sent out that high.

John Madden has notified the Coney Island Jockey Club to declare his five-year-old Approval from the Suburban Handicap.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 25 .- By a vote of 11 to 7, all members placing themselves on record, the Board of Supervisors voted to-day to allow the reopening of and selling of pools at Ingleside track for thirty-six days each year. The message was passed to print, and the ordinance will undoubtedly be passed on Monday. Upward of 10,000 persons had petitioned the supervisors to permit the reopening of the course, which is on the out-skirts of this city. There was also a measure fathered by ministers, several of whom were fathered by ministers, several of whom were present to protest against the passing of the ordinance. It was the opinion of the majority of the Supervisors that no good was done the city's interests by keeping Ingieside closed when tracks adjacent to the city are allowed to race at will, reaping all financial advantage. The passage of the ordinance is a great victory for the San Francisco Jockey Club in its fight against the Oakland people. Prince Ponentowski and his associates can immediately transfer racing from Tanforan to Ingleside or continue racing at the former track until March 15 and then make the change.

Both the Columbian and Knickerbocker F. C. played their best games of the season against the two leading seams in the Brooklyn Interclub League last night. The Crescent Athletics made a poor on wing at home and were beaten by more than 300 pins. The Carletons fared better. They averaged our 190s at home and beat the Knickerbockers by 70 pins. The Carleton Club and Crescent A. C. are now on even terms and a lively finish is anticipated. The scores. Burlingame Stock Farm's ch. g. Brutai, 8 as pointed and the Saratoga Special for two-year-olds are successful venture. Before the programme was issued thirteen prominent sportsime subscribed $1.000 each to the event for the privilege of naming one starter.
